

Mr. & Mrs. Donald Larson

Amidst the pines of their home on Knoll Road, Locke Mills, on Saturday morning, July 12, 1997, at 11 a.m., and witnessed by about 40 friends and relatives, Lorraine F. Mills and Donald A. Larson were united in marriage. The Rev. John Grant of the Bethel Church of the Nazarene officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Escorted by her son, Ralph L. Mills, the bride wore a floor-length rose lace gown and carried a bouquet of red carnations, white mums and blue painted daisies. Her daughter, Marcia L. Smith of Presque Isle, gown in yellow, was the bride's only attendant. Ralph, in behalf of his sister and himself, gave the bride away.

The groom was attended by a longtime friend, Doug Bane of Palmyra.

Bill Shimamura, folk musician and friend of the couple, provided the music. Gerry Shimamura, Mary Cobb and Juanita Korhonen were in charge of the decorations and the buffet that followed the ceremony.

The bride made the cake which was beautifully decorated by Gerry Shimamura. Lacey and Justin Palmer presided over the gifts. Patty Holland of Pembroke, N.H., was in charge of the guest book.

Following the buffet, the bride, dressed in an ivory going-away outfit, left with the groom on a five-day trip around the northern and eastern region of Maine.

No-bonus blues at skiway were premature

The word, when it does come, may still be 'sorry,' but corporate officials say last week's paychecks were not the messenger

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Sunday River Ski Resort has made no decision yet as to whether it will pay employee bonuses for the recently concluded fiscal year.

The bonuses, which have been paid for more than a dozen years, have traditionally turned up in the first paycheck in August.

So when employees opened their paychecks last Thursday and found only their normal pay, word quickly spread there would be no bonuses this year.

That news was greeted with disappointment, anger, and, in a few cases, tears.

Matters were made worse Friday: when employees received a press release announcing that American Skiing Company (the corporate umbrella under which Sunday River and six other resorts operate) had signed an agreement to purchase two additional resorts, at a cost of $288 million (see box).

And things got still worse Saturday: when an article in the Sun-

Journal (on the same page with the ASC acquisition announcement) reported that Sunday River communications manager Mike Bertie had confirmed there would be no bonus.

The article concluded by quoting Bertie as saying he was "unaware of any complaints lodged by employees about the lack of year-end bonuses."

That was the final twist of the knife for many employees, a number of whom contacted The Citizen to express their anger with both the (apparent) bonus decision and with

ASC signs to buy two more Western resorts

American Skiing Company of Newry has extended its reach from coast to coast on Friday with the purchase of Steamboat Springs in Colorado and Heavenly in California.

ASC Holdings Inc., parent of ASC, signed a deal with Kamori International Corp. of Japan on Friday to buy the two big-name resorts for $288.3 million.

It is by far the biggest deal yet struck by the aggressive, expansion-minded ASC, which only two years ago paid less than half that -- $104 million -- for SKI Ltd. and its stable of four Eastern resorts.

"This is a big day for us," ASC Chairman Les Otten said in a statement. "These are world-class resorts, and Kamori International has done a superb job of managing them. There has been a lot of interest in the resorts from other parties, and we're honored to have been selected."

When the deal with Kamori closes, expected in October, ASC will own some of the biggest names in the business. It will have 11 resorts

Bethel police station will stay in Cole Block

But its space will be increased

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Bethel Police Station will not be moving to the former Evans Notch Ranger Station on Route 2.

The town selectmen voted unanimously Monday to decline an offer from the U.S. Forest Service to swap space in the building in exchange for help from the town with its maintenance.

Instead, the selectmen instructed Town Manager Phil Tarr to negotiate with W.J. Wheeler Insurance Agency regarding a date for the agency to vacate the Cole Block space it currently rents from the town.

The agency rents approximately 350 square feet of space, which is adjacent to the roughly 200 square feet currently occupied by the Police Department.

Tarr was further directed to come up with a plan for reallocating the overall space in such a way that the Police Department, and possibly other town-office functions, could have more room.

The most likely change would appear to be having the Police Department expand directly into the space currently occupied by the insurance agency.

At this year's annual Town Meeting, voters allocated $4,375 to move the police station to the Evans Notch building, where 832 square feet of office space and two garage bays are available.

But voters also directed the selectmen to seek more public input before committing to the move.

At a public hearing on the issue last month the majority of the speakers supported such a move, but turnout at that meeting was

Whitman Memorial Library gets $40,000 from Kings' foundation

By ALISON ALOISIO

Woodstock's Whitman Memorial Library has received a gift of $40,000 from the Stephen and Tabitha King Foundation. And if the town can raise another $20,000 in the next year, the Kings will match it with an additional donation.

Town Manager Vern Maxfield wrote the Kings a letter July 15, asking to be considered for a gift. "Someone had called and told them (the foundation) about the library. They actually called and asked us to apply," he said.

In his letter, Maxfield told of the library's ongoing expansion project, which will double its size by the end of the summer. The extra space will be used for such activities as children's story hour and meetings.

The town has raised $40,000 and spent $10,000 so far. The total cost of the expansion is $120,000.

"Our library was built in 1908 and has changed little over these past 90 years," Maxfield wrote in his request.

He noted the library is listed on the National Register of Historic Places. He asked for financial support, but did not request a specific figure.

It didn't take long to get a reply. In a letter dated July 24, foundation administrator Shirley Sonderegger said the foundation was donating $40,000.

McKenna reappointed ACO in Greenwood

By MICHAEL DANIELS

The Greenwood Board of Selectmen has reappointed Animal Control Officer Marsha McKenna of Rumford, whose performance was recently criticized by First Selectman Marie Bartlett.

McKenna met with the selectmen Tuesday evening, seeking public apology from Bartlett.

She didn't get the apology, but following an executive session the selectmen voted unanimously to appoint her to another one-year term.

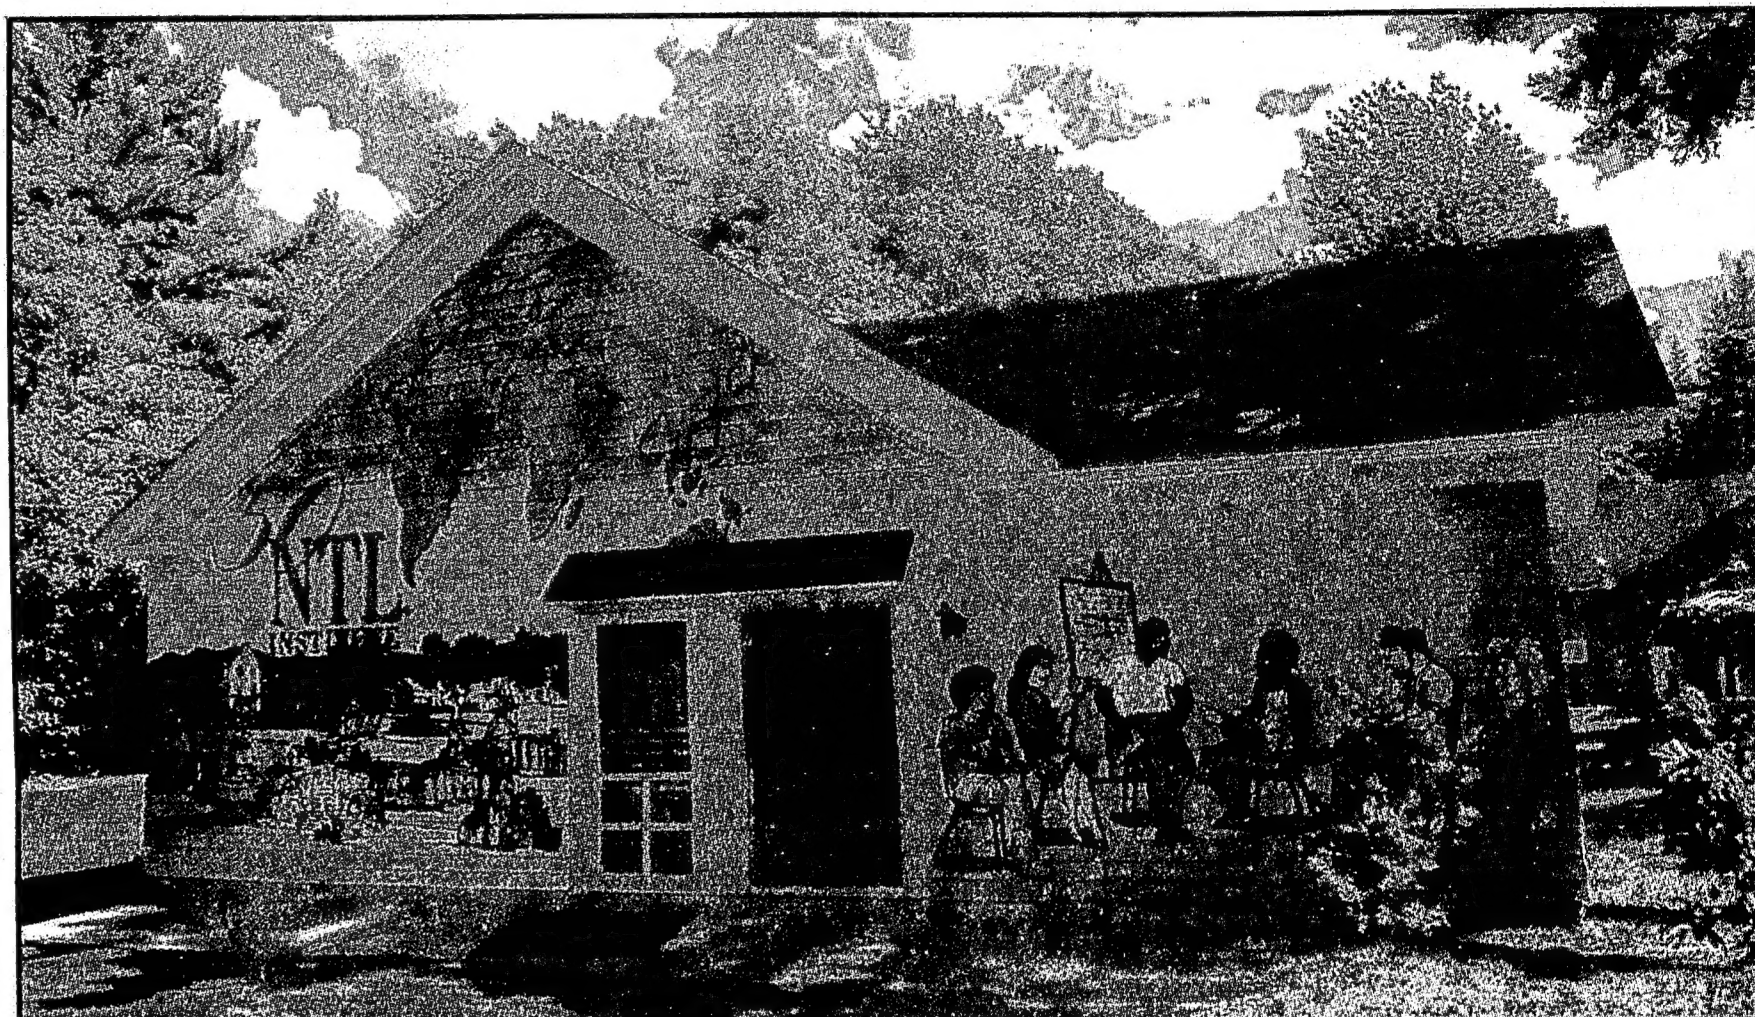

McKenna said Wednesday she would continue in the position, which she has held for approximately five years, but she was still dissatisfied with Bartlett's handling of the situation.

At a selectmen's meeting last month Bartlett said she had received a number of complaints about McKenna's unavailability.

"I've had a lot of calls from people who have had problems with stray dogs around their property who say that they often have to wait for days before they can get to her," Bartlett was quoted as saying.

Bricks, boards, buses are Brent Bachelder's canvas

By ALISON ALOISIO

Brent Bachelder's art career began on the hallway walls of Telstar High School in the 1980s. Now, his work can be found in such varied locations as public transit buses and highway underpasses in Rhode Island, and the outside of the administration building of the National Training Laboratory in Bethel.

Bachelder, a Newry native, has loved doing artwork since he was a child. "I can't remember a time I didn't draw, paint or sculpt. I did my first 'public' drawing, a drawing of my father, when I was six years old," he said. He submitted the drawing for a children's page in a newspaper.

At Telstar, Bachelder painted wall murals to earn extra credit for English class. One painting, of Sir Isaac Newton holding an apple, can still be seen in the downstairs hallway.

Bachelder also took summer art classes at Gould Academy. Another mural he painted decorates the art cottage on the Gould campus.

He went on to attend the Rhode Island School of Design, graduating in 1989 with a degree in sculpture.

But making a living in the art world is often difficult, and Bachelder found it even more so in the area of sculpture. As a result, he has come to be a jack of many trades, including a visiting artist to schools and other organizations, and a painter of murals.

Bachelder organized a mural painting program at the Adult Correctional Institution in Rhode Island. He works with female inmates as part of a drug rehabilitation program.

The inmates' murals, painted in the institution's buildings, included subjects such as a park scene with a family theme, and metaphorical representations of drug use.

He also started Club Neopolis Creations, a Providence company that specializes in sign and mural painting.

His work generally features bright colors and black outlines. Currently, Bachelder is working on a Rhode Island transit bus, which runs in Newport, R.I. The mural depicts the mansions and other historic sites located in the town that was the summer home to the wealthy earlier in this century.

River currents grazing on Newry pasturelands

By ALISON ALOISIO

Landowners in the Sunday River Valley are concerned they are losing land to the changing course of the river -- possibly caused in part by development and severe rainstorms of recent years.

A meeting of landowners and other interested people, sponsored by the Oxford County Soil and Water Conservation District, is planned for Aug. 20. Its purpose is to organize a project to study, and eventually address, the needs of the river's watershed.

Randy Harrington's family owns property along the river. He said the riverbed has been filling up with gravel, changing the course of the river and eroding away its banks.

Twenty-five to 40 feet of field and orchard area have been lost to erosion in the past few years, Harrington said. And during heavy rains, the water spreads out past the eroded areas and floods the land more than it has in the past.

Sunday River's meanders eating into landowners' banks and fields

He has been talking with OCSWCD's Jim Chandler on and off for almost two years regarding the situation. One option, Harrington said, might be to obtain a permit from the Department of Environmental Protection to remove sediment and return that section of the river to its previous course.

Harrington said he knows of at least six to 10 landowners having similar problems. "People are not sure what to do about it. We hope they'll come (to the meeting) and find out," he said.

Chandler said of the Aug. 20 gathering, "We want to bring all parties together to maintain and improve the quality of the Sunday River, and balance economic and environmental concerns."

The group's efforts, he said, might include applying for grant money to support such steps as installing buffer strips, rip-rap and other erosion control techniques, and water quality studies.

Chandler said there have also been some concerns that fisheries are declining.

WHAT'S IN IT FOR ME?

To the Editor:

This letter is in support of the proposed High Stakes Bingo facility in Albany Township.

There exists three different criteria that need to be addressed in order that this proposal go forward.

The first is the legal aspect, of which the State of Maine provides that this sort of activity is necessary as an economic tool for the various tribes, and is therefore lawful.

The second is the environmental factor, where I feel that all concerns have been addressed particularly in light of the relatively close proximity of the Bingo Hall to Crooked River. Note: Probably the best engineering firm in the state has been hired to address these concerns.

The third consideration is the social/economic impact. In my mind, from an economic standpoint, there can be nothing but positive results. As far as the social impacts are concerned, it seems tremendously unfair to me that when there are only two, repeat only two households that will be in a direct line of sight with this facility, that some of the other Albany Township residents would be opposed to this project (read NIMBY). I guess the biggest question, as was expressed by one gentleman who felt he would be unable to ride his horses in that vicinity for some reason is, "What's in it for me?" This attitude is so typical.

The major impact that this project will have is increased traffic for approximately four hours per day for 54 days per year, or about 216 hours per year. I do not feel that this in any way substantively alters one's "way of life," unlike the manner in which the newcomers' "way of life" was shoved down the throats of Native Americans. This is my definition of altering "way of life."

Lt. Gov. William (Eric) Altwater
Passamaquoddy Tribe, Perry, Maine

WHAT'S BEST FOR ALBANY

To the Editor:

First, let me thank the citizens of the local and not so local towns that think they know what is best for the people of Albany Township. I find it amusing that when it came time for the Bethel Station to be built and for Sunday River to increase its skiing terrain the citizens of Albany had very little to say in the matter, even though we live with all the changes, good and bad, daily. Now that its Albany that is facing changes, every town in the area seems to know what is best for us. Thanks for the concern, but I feel that we have the ability and the knowledge to know what we want for our town.

I don't think that the citizens of Albany or Mr. Rosenblatt find the matter of a Bingo Hall in Albany a laughing matter (letter to the editor from tribe Lt. Gov. William (Eric) Altwater, July 30). If we did, would we be fighting this project as hard as we are. I was unable to attend the meeting at the Town Hall, but feel that if we can find some humor in helping us deal with this situation, it is better than the animosity that could be present.

I am sorry for the plight of the tribe and all of the problems that they, as a people, face. The history of the Native Americans and the effect of the European invasion is a sad part of this country's history that is hard for everyone to accept. I, myself, have a Native American background and cringe at what the history books report. Our forefathers made bad decisions, but we cannot be held responsible for their sins.

The Passamaquoddy's are not the only people that are low-income and are not the only nationality to have lost many in the wars defending this country. We all suffered in the losses that this great nation has faced in the fight for its freedom and that of other nations, no matter what the nationality of that individual that gave his or her life for this nation.

I would like to ask a few questions at this time. Is it not true that anyone from the tribe can go to college for nothing? Do Native Americans still own the Dragon Company? Do they still own the trailer and double-wide company? If so, how much has it benefited the Native Americans?

Will the tribe be brought to Albany to work at the Bingo Hall? Are they planning to move the reservation to Albany? If so, how? How many Passamaquoddy's are going to be employed by this project? I ask these questions because of the closing comments Lt. Gov. Altwater made in his letter. Just how few people is this project going to benefit? He and Mr. Smith, from Fryeburg? I know that it is already benefiting Mr. Smith.

The one thing that this great nation affords us is a voice in what happens to our towns. So, do not think that because the population of Albany is not as many as the Passamaquoddy Tribe, that our voices cannot be heard? Because, in assessing this project, Lt. Gov. Altwater's opinion about the drawbacks is about to draw a loud cry from the voices of the few that are affected.

NO LAUGHING MATTER

To the Editor:

In answer to Lt. Gov. W. Altwater's letter in last week's Citizen -- I resent the statement that we treated the problem as a joke. I was at the meeting on Sunday, July 27, at the Albany Town Hall, and it was a serious meeting -- no laughing matter to us in Albany. Mr. Rosenblatt is no "stand-up comedian." He is a serious man trying to prevent a totally inappropriate operation in Albany.

This is no laughing matter. And in answer to E.J. Lozier's letter, also in last week's Citizen -- the licenses for bingo issued in Bethel are not to be compared to the operation proposed for Albany. I do not "disdain" bingo players, but big-time gambling always attracts an undesirable element. This project is not needed, not compatible with the surroundings, and the problems of police protection, fire protection, and sewerage are prohibitively expensive. This area floods frequently.

I note that Ms. Lozier does not live in Albany.

TOWN EYES OFFICE SPACE--The Bethel Board of Selectmen has instructed Town Manager Phil Tarr to arrange with the W.J. STOP CORPORATE WELFARE

To the Editor:

The petition drive to stop the corporate welfare given to Bath Iron Works in this last legislative session is growing. People from all across the state of Maine, ordinary citizens who are outraged by the Legislature's act of taking from the needy and giving to the greedy are volunteering time and energy to collect signatures. The logistics of gathering signatures and getting them certified by the registrar of voters and returned to the collection point in Bethel will be made easier if there is a volunteer contact in each community. It is neither time-consuming nor difficult but is vitally important to this effort.

I am asking that any person willing to be a contact in their community call me at 338-1429 for information.

GREENWOOD'S BEACH IS FOR TOWN RESIDENTS

To the Editor:

I am writing on behalf of the Greenwood Recreation Committee concerning our town beach. This land was purchased by and is maintained by the taxpayers of Greenwood.

The town office has been receiving an increasing number of phone calls regarding the use of our beach by nonresidents. We would like to remind these folks that this beach is for Greenwood taxpayers only. We would appreciate their cooperation in respecting this. We're hoping we won't have to hire a babysitter to patrol the beach.

If nonresidents would like to have a place to go, they should contact their town about finding one.

MY STARS ARE BACK

To the Editor:

A few nights ago, I went out on my freshly cut lawn and lay down, gazing at the brilliant night sky. Because it was such a clear night, I could see the Milky Way. Craning my neck, I could get a peek at one of my favorite constellations, Cassiopeia. The darkness was only interrupted by the shine of the many stars and my favorite night visitor, the moon. And, oh yes, there are some red lights shining in the south, a few solid and three softly pulsing ones. The peace has returned. I felt myself sigh in contentment.

If you remember, more than a year ago, the Greenwood tower was hardly noticeable because it had soft, red lights at night. Then, last summer, AT&T changed the lights into three white strobe lights. Up until a month or so ago, these bright, invasive lights kept me from enjoying the night sky. After a few months of bright strobe lights flashing on my living room wall, I knew that I could not tolerate this new invasion to my night sky. I came from a metropolitan area to Maine for the quiet and dark. Now, the darkness has returned.

There is quite a story to this return. But I don't need to tell it because The Bethel Citizen has told it in the last six months. Alison Aloisio was present when I inquired at the Greenwood Planning Board meeting in February about the ownership of the tower. She spent her time and effort to find out the facts about the white strobe lights, AT&T's policies and reasons for the change, and the Federal Aviation Administration's regulations. She gave some of the contact people's names to me so that I could proceed with my part of the work. So, I want to thank The Bethel Citizen and Alison for doing an excellent job of reporting these community concerns. Then, I want to thank all the people who recognized the need for a change in those lights: all the people who signed my petition to AT&T requesting the dual light system they have installed. I also want to thank all the people who lent their support and participated by making suggestions on how to improve the situation -- friends, community members, airport owners.

Finally, I want to thank AT&T, especially Rick Brayall from public relations and Ross Kingston, the operations supervisor. This gratitude is not only for the change that has miraculously come about but also for putting a dent in the hardened shell I've been carrying around concerning my perception of the callousness of large corporations. My perspective about how large corporations are run has been affected, changed, just as the lights have. AT&T has been responsive to a small neighborhood of people and through their own local representatives, whom they have trusted enough to take their advice, they have proven that they do care. The bottom line here did not turn out to be money.

So, our night sky has returned and some of my belief system has changed to include the humanness of corporate America -- all in a few months' work.

OUT-OF-THE-ORDINARY HELP

To the Editor:

Special praise and thanks to the Bethel Fire Department who responded quickly to a call for help that had nothing to do with fighting a fire.

Jim Young and several men came to the rescue recently and saved my 300-pound-plus, three-legged pig from an untimely end. I could not help her by myself.

Thanks to Jim Bennett and some rope the pig was rescued.

It's a comforting thought to know that people will respond -- even for such an out-of-the-ordinary situation.

SACRED LANDS ... SECULAR AGONY

To the Editor:

A question and comment.

I am puzzled concerning the Achievement in Business Award that was presented to business and municipal agencies for their Bethel Station endeavors. What were the criteria? Most roadway that goes from nowhere to no place? Best material representation of the lunar landscape? Best desert in Maine?

And about these 1,300 hikers. What is going on? I don't want those kind of people in my backyard or sleeping in my bed. All they do is sit around and drink -- "passa my toddy" -- and leave the land (whose land?) in secular agony. Sacred land ... secular agony.

The common good to whose petty ends?

TELSTAR ALUMNI DAY

To the Editor:

I wish to call attention to a struggling, but dedicated group of people from the greater Telstar area. This group is the Telstar Alumni Association.

The group was formed several years ago with several goals in mind. These include bringing together Telstar alumni from each of the now 29 graduating classes of Telstar Regional High School; planning homecoming activities, beginning with a variety show this October; Project Graduation support; and other projects to benefit Telstar students.

I realize that many Telstar graduates have left the area and are scattered throughout the country and the world, but there are many more who have stayed in the Telstar area and who can lend their help and support.

On Telstar Alumni Day, Saturday, Aug. 9, there will be a gathering from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Telstar cafeteria. There will be pictures of memories, light refreshments, a few activities and most important -- Telstar alumni and faculty from the Class of 1969 through the Class of 1997. I urge all Telstar alumni and faculty (past and present) to show up on the ninth of August and say hello.

The association would greatly appreciate, from any alum who is not planning to be in the area, a card/note giving name, address, phone number, and class year to either Sally Deegan Smith, '71, P.O. Box 36, Locke Mills, ME 04255; or Carolyn Tyler Johnson, '72, P.O. Box 81, Locke Mills, ME 04255.

Briefly

Pipeline, bingo workshops planned

BETHEL--Acknowledging they need more information about both projects, selectmen agreed to hold a workshop Aug. 18 on the Portland Natural Gas Transmission System pipeline and the proposed Passamaquoddy high stakes bingo hall in nearby Albany Township. The move came at Monday's selectmen's meeting, at the urging of opponents of the projects. Selectmen Bob Chaddbourne and Ruth Grover said they had already formed an opinion. Neither stated one at the meeting, however.

Mil rate steady in Woodstock

WOODSTOCK--The mil rate is expected to remain the same -- at 18.82 -- for the fourth consecutive year, Town Manager Vern Maxfield told selectmen Tuesday evening. He said $823,361 must be raised from taxes toward a total appropriation of $1,164,886. The school share is $542,248, and the town appropriation is $580,635.

Fire destroys Rainbow Tea Room

WOODSTOCK--A Saturday morning fire destroyed the Brown's Store building, formerly known as the Rainbow Tea Room, in Bryant Pond Village. Owner Fran Head of Bethel was working in an adjacent garage when the fire broke out. She was readying the building for a new tenant. The Woodstock Fire Department was on the scene in 10 minutes, but the structure was fully involved. Fire chief Bill Seames suspects the cause of the fire was electrical, because the wiring was old BX cable. The state Fire Marshal's Office is expected to investigate. The building was insured, according to Head.

Trappers' Weekend holds its 20th

BETHEL--The 20th annual New England Trappers Anniversary Weekend will take place Aug. 15, 16 and 17 at Neil Olson's in Bethel. Activities will include presentations by trappers and a variety of entertainment, such as a jeep parade, cloggers, an Elvis Presley impersonator, a street dance and an auction.

Vocational budget back again

RUMFORD--The Region 9 School of Applied Technology budget will be voted upon a third time Aug. 14. It was approved last week at an open meeting in Rumford, after it had been approved this spring by popular vote, but defeated by weighted vote of the governing board. Rumford and Mexico officials then questioned whether last week's vote was valid, because only five of the 12 region board members had signed the warrant for the meeting. Six -- the number required by the bylaws -- were present for the signing, but one refrained from signing. Another warrant was approved Tuesday night by a board vote of 8-1, for the same budget figures presented in the previous two votes.

Richard Lavalette pleads innocent

PITTSFIELD, Mass.--Richard Lavalette, husband of the former Greenwood town manager, pled innocent last week to receiving money allegedly stolen from the town last year. Elizabeth Lavalette was indicted in May by an Oxford County grand jury on a charge of taking $20,000 from Greenwood in June of 1996.

Gilbert grant OK'd

GREENWOOD--By a vote of 38-5, residents last week authorized selectmen to accept a $100,000 grant for Gilbert Manufacturing Corp. The grant would come through the Maine Department of Economic and Community Development, and would be used by Gilbert for refinancing. The town would not be liable if the loan was not repaid. It will be combined with an $800,000 loan from Oxford Bank and Trust. The grant application will now be submitted by the Oxford Hills Growth Council.

Andover approves groomer loan

ANDOVER--Voters last week approved a $19,500 loan to the Sno Valley Sno-Goers snowmobile club for a trail groomer. The vote at the special Town Meeting was 44-21. An interest rate has not yet been set. It was estimated the loan would raise the mil rate by 0.5. A request by the Fire Department for a $4,450 portable fire pump was defeated. The current pump is 35 years old.

Area lakes holding their own

WOODSTOCK--Results from water quality testing performed last summer on Lake Christopher and Twitchell Pond were generally consistent with previous years' tests. In Lake Christopher, oxygen was found to be completely depleted below a depth of 14 meters and depressed below six meters. The overall phosphorus level was moderate. A higher level was measured at the bottom, indicating some phosphorus is being released from the bottom due to depleted oxygen levels. Alkalinity and pH levels were good. In Twitchell Pond, oxygen was depleted below 11 meters and depressed below seven. The overall phosphorus level was low, but higher at the bottom due to depleted oxygen. Overall transparency conditions were one of the best recorded in recent years, and were average compared to other lakes in Maine. The Community Lakes Association is advocating reducing erosion and other sources of nutrients in the watershed.

100 new jobs coming to Norway

NORWAY--Central Maine Technical College in Auburn will help New Balance Athletic Shoe add nearly 100 new employees to its Oxford Hills work force over the next year. The college will offer an education and training program to prepare people for a variety of jobs at the shoe manufacturing plant in Norway. The new positions will include inspectors, packers, stitchers, assemblers and others with average wages of $8 to $10 per hour plus benefits.

Waterford out as power plant site

WATERFORD--Property in Waterford that was under consideration as a site for a gas-fired power plant has been ruled out. Energy Management Inc. of North Dartmouth, Mass., wants to build the plant along a proposed natural gas pipeline from southern Maine to Quebec. Another piece of land, located in Harrison, was ruled out earlier. A company spokesman said EMI is looking at land in the Rumford Industrial Park.

Another pipeline proposal

NEW ENGLAND--A third pipeline proposal to bring gas to the Northeast is due to be presented soon, according to a report in the Portland Press Herald. The 547-mile line would run along the ocean floor from the Sable Island oil and gas fields off Nova Scotia to Seabrook, N.H. Federal regulatory agencies in the U.S. and Canada are already considering two overland proposals, from the Maritimes & Northeast Pipeline and the Trans-Quebec Maritime Pipeline. The Portland Natural Gas Transmission System is preparing to bring gas from Montreal to Maine and New Hampshire next year. The PNGTS pipeline does not compete directly with the Sable Island proposals.

Milk prices go up

AUGUSTA--The Maine Milk Commission voted recently to raise the minimum wholesale price on a gallon of milk by 11 cents, beginning Aug. 3. The increase reflects rising costs for machinery, electricity, fuel oil, plastic containers and labor, according to the commission. It is the first increase in three years. The commission also adopted a price increase to be paid to Maine farmers for their milk. It will result in a 4 cent increase in the minimum price for a gallon of whole milk. The combined effect will increase the minimum price of a gallon of milk by 15 cents.

From the Bethel Police log:

Coydog reported in village

On Aug. 2 at 3:30 p.m. a caller reported a problem with a coydog. The animal control officer was contacted. She advised that when she gets authorization for a trap and the dog is sighted again attempts will be made to contain it. She further said that game wardens must be called as well when it is seen again. The complainant was advised, and will report any future sightings.

Also on August 2

At 2:25 p.m. police responded to a report of a propane fire. The subject apparently failed to tighten a fitting on a grill, and it ignited. The fire was out when police arrived. The officer stood by until the Fire Department arrived.

Sunday, August 3

At 7 a.m. police issued a summons to Melissa Howe, 21, of Bethel for operating an unregistered motor vehicle and failure to display a current or valid certificate of inspection. She had been warned earlier to correct the problem and at the time of summoning had not complied.

At 6:25 p.m. a caller reported a black, three-legged dog was constantly in the roadway, chasing vehicles and persons. Police contacted the owner and told her to keep the dog contained, or she would be issued a summons for dog at large.

At 10:13 a.m. police received a report that a subject was operating a vehicle while his license was under suspension in New Hampshire. The officer was requested to be on the lookout for the vehicle on the Sunday River Road. The vehicle was spotted and stopped. After receiving initial information of the subject's license status, he was placed under arrest for operating without a license. After arrival at the Oxford County Jail, it was found there were two men with similar dates of birth and descriptions. The subject was found not to be under suspension, but he did have an active warrant for operating after suspension in November of 1993. The subject, Andrew F. Robinson, 34, of Hudson, N.H., was processed for the warrant and then turned over to the corrections staff and held in lieu of bail.

Tuesday, Aug. 5

At 7:53 p.m. Amos A. Kimball, 28, of Bethel was arrested on a warrant of failure to appear in court. He was arrested at his residence and transported to the Oxford County Jail, where he was processed and released to corrections staff and held in lieu of bail.

Wednesday, Aug. 6

At 7:57 a.m. a Mayville resident reported that during the night a vehicle hit two mailboxes at the end of a driveway. The vehicle involved was a blue, 1990 Honda. It would have a large amount of damage to the right side of the vehicle. If anyone has information regarding the incident, please contact the Police Department.

ON THE MEND, AND LOOKING FOR A HOME--This purebred German short-haired pointer, found wandering in West Paris, was operated on at the Bethel Animal Hospital Tuesday for a malignant tumor. The operation was a success, and the dog, estimated to be about five years old, is expected to be put up for adoption. Responsible Pet Care of Norway paid for the surgery. The shelter has footed the bill for a number of surgeries on strays recently. Shelter volunteer and BAH assistant Kathy Jo Farren said RPC hopes to set up a standing fund to finance surgeries in the future. Anyone wishing to contribute may send donations to Responsible Pet Care, 132 Waterford Road, Norway 04268. Farren is shown above with the still-sleepy dog, dubbed "Big Boy," shortly after his operation. (Photo by Alison Aloisio)

Newry native/artist Brent Bachelder

Bachelder and Brown University students are also painting a mural on a Route 195 underpass in Providence.

He said he enjoys the settings in which his murals are generally painted. "You're usually outside. People come up and talk to you and ask you questions, or they beep their horns. And kids riding their bikes will stop. It's very participatory."

It was a similar setting when Bachelder painted a mural recently in Bethel. To help the National Training Laboratory celebrate its 50th anniversary, Bachelder painted the front of the organization's administration building.

He did the work the weekend of July 12, during NTL's "Great Gathering" anniversary celebration. "It was additional entertainment," said Bachelder.

The painting depicts well-known buildings in Bethel, and also shows a "T-group," one of NTL's basic operating groups.

Bachelder's identifying style of bright colors and black outlines is apparent in the project, which took a total of 80 man-hours (he had the help of other artists).

"It took a lot of planning," he said. Bachelder first did a small-scale painting, then used a projector to create an enlarged version on the wall. The outline was painted from the image, and the artists then finished the work.

NTL expects to bring Bachelder back for another project at their buildings known as the clusters. He will paint six panels there -- each depicting a decade in NTL history, plus one showing a vision of the future.

While murals are a key part of Bachelder's work, he also does other commercial work according to customer request -- for instance, custom portraits from photographs. He's getting into computer graphic design as well.

"I provide custom art work of all kinds," said Bachelder. "I love the fact that I don't do just one thing."

Police station

light, and others in town have expressed concerns that if the station were to be relocated, police presence on Main Street would be reduced.

Such concerns seemed to be pivotal when the matter finally came to a vote Monday.

"The issue still boils down to Main Street coverage," Board Chairman Dutch Dresser told Police Chief Dale Bellman Monday evening. "When you're not actively patrolling, you're here. Every time you go someplace, you're seen on Main Street. Every time you return, you're seen."

All involved agree that the police need more room. Bellman had supported the move to the USFS building, but he expressed satisfaction following the decision to expand into the W. J. Wheeler space.

Town Manager Phil Tarr was instructed to come up with a plan for utilizing the additional space, and for negotiating with W.J. Wheeler on an exit date.

The town will also continue discussions with the USFS on using garage space there for the town's second police cruiser, perhaps in exchange for plowing.

For the long term, a Public Safety Committee currently being formed by the selectmen is expected to look at the needs, including space, of the Police and Fire departments, and the Rescue Service.

Through the window

W.J. Wheeler's most recent lease with the town expired more than two months ago.

The agency is looking at new space in the Norway Savings Bank building according to office manager Kate Houston.

But Cathryn Lovejoy, who has greeted customers in the office for 11 years, would prefer to stay put.

"I'm concerned for our customers," she said. "They love showing their payments through the door, and looking in here for our smiles."

McKenna

McKenna replied in a three-page, single-spaced letter to the board.

Marie Bartlett has overstepped her ethical bounds by quoting exaggerated accusations about my performance," McKenna wrote.

The ACO went on to describe in detail one situation Bartlett had cited. McKenna wrote that based on her own analysis of the facts, Bartlett had either been lied to or "misquoted the information that had been given to her."

As to the broader complaint that she is often unavailable, McKenna wrote: "I am in the shelter seven days a week and I have an answering machine there which is always taking messages 24 hours a day."

Bartlett, prior to the executive session, defended her charges. "I don't feel they're false at all," she said.

Some people were so frustrated, Bartlett said, that they threatened her: "if (McKenna) didn't come they were going to chain a dog to my flagpole."

During the executive session the dispute was resolved to the point that McKenna accepted reappointment.

But she did not leave satisfied. "Marie seems to think we're back on track," McKenna said, "but I didn't leave the meeting with that feeling."

(Note: McKenna's telephone number in Rumford is 364-7176. She can also be reached through the Oxford County dispatcher, at 1-800-743-1421, or, in emergency situations, 911.)

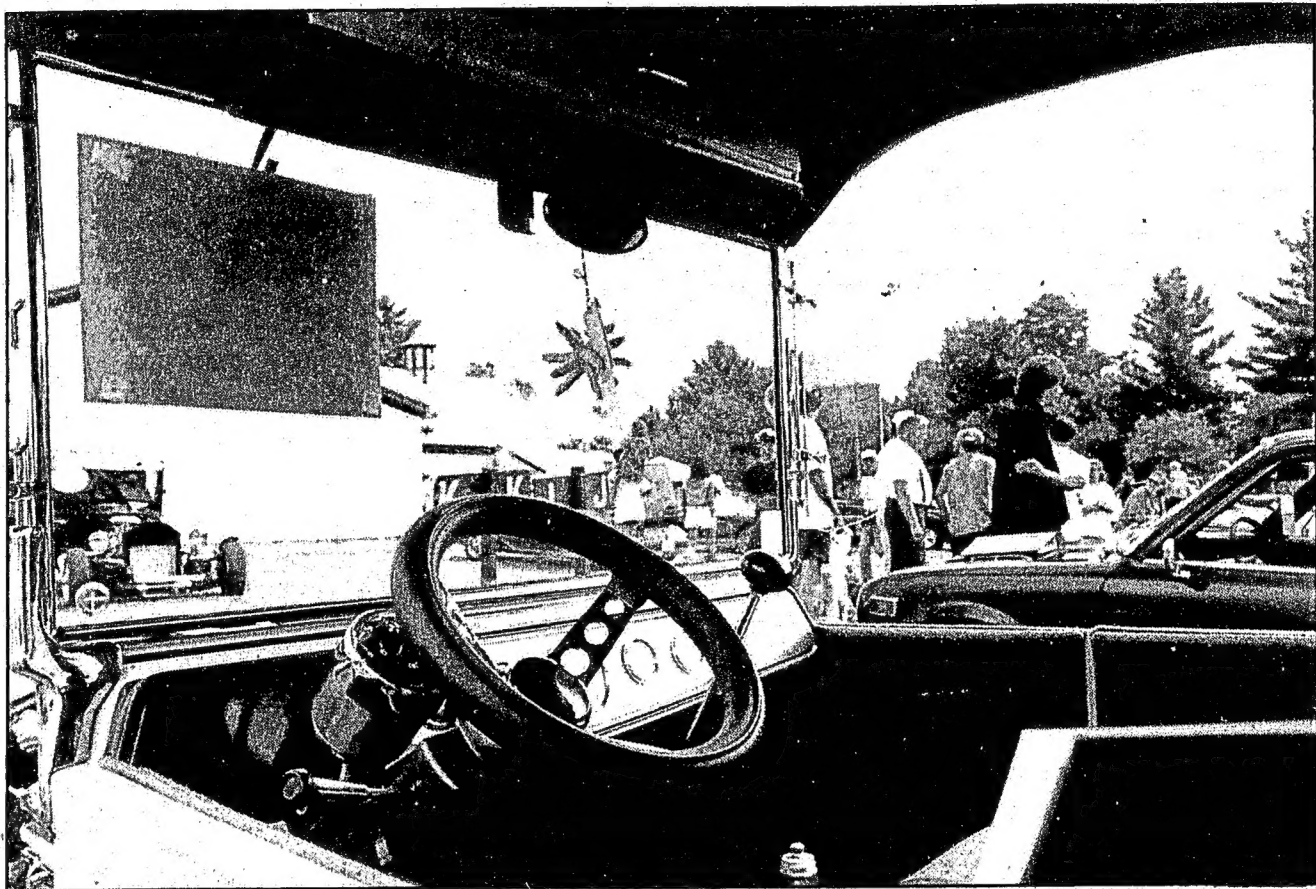

Library

The gift itself did not come as a surprise, because the town had been invited to apply. But, said Maxfield, "the size of it was quite a surprise."

Sonderegger also said in her letter that "if you raise another $20,000 within the next year, we will grant the remaining $20,000 needed for the project. This is quite a challenge, isn't it?"

Maxfield said selectmen will consider whether to put all or some of the $20,000 on the warrant for next year's annual Town Meeting.

ENJOYING THE SHOW--Thousands of fair goers turned out over the weekend for Andover Olde Home Days. Among the popular events was the Antique and Classic Car and Truck Show at Akers Field, sponsored by Western Maine Street Rods. Results of many of this year's events can be found in Karen McKay's column on page 7. Summer festivals continue this weekend with Bethel's Sudbury Canada Days, on the grounds of the Moses Mason House. See page 11 for details. (Photo by Michael Daniels)

River

LOSING GROUND—The banks of the Sunday River are eroding away and changing the course of the river. As a result, some landowners, like the Harringtons of Bethel, are losing field and orchard land. Above, a sandbar (foreground) has formed where the river used to run. To the rear, the river is now cutting into the Harrington's land.

agement Agency to restudy flood levels for the river. The proposed study was also supported by Newry selectmen.

The request noted that during three successive heavy storms in the fall of 1995, the Sunday River showed a high flood level, while the Androscoggin was still significantly below flood stage. Included in the request were photos showing erosion and flooding in the river, as well as a change of course of Barker Brook, which flows into the Sunday River.

Code enforcement officer Norm Putnam, who provided the photos, said then the flow in both Barker and Merrill Brook, another tributary, has been increased in volume and rate of flow due to activities at Sunday River Ski Resort.

Specifically, he cited 640 acres of ski terrain, as well as parking areas and buildings, as contributing to rapid runoff. Clearcutting elsewhere in the upper valley during that time could also be a factor, said Putnam.

Added snowpack from manmade snow might also contribute to an increase in the rate and volume of runoff from melting snow in the spring, he said.

Asked whether the manmade snow could be a factor, Chandler speculated it might not necessarily increase the peak runoff in the spring, but could prolong it. The uncertainty regarding causes of the change in the river, he said, is the reason more study is needed.

Putnam said this week the FEMA study is on a waiting list. He may, he said, write to FEMA and ask that it be moved up.

Mike Bertie, Sunday River Ski Resort spokesman, said the skiway would "welcome the opportunity for FEMA to come in and do a study and make recommendations."

Regarding the Aug. 20 watershed meeting, Bertie said the resort "fully supports community involvement and taking an active role in maintaining the river. The more people looking out for the river, the better." The skiway will send a representative to the meeting, he said.

The meeting is open to the public and will take place at the Sunday River Inn in Newry, beginning at 7 p.m.

Jordan Bowl Road update
In May, a combination of rain, clay slides, melting frost and construction on Sunday River Ski Resort's Jordan Bowl Access Road muddled the river. The Department of Environmental Protection received complaint calls from residents regarding the condition of the river.

The ski resort was expected to receive a fine from the Department of Environmental Protection in connection with the erosion problems. Bertie said Tuesday that negotiations regarding the fine are still ongoing.

The road is being built by A.J. Coleman Co. of Conway, N.H. Will Cook of DEP said Monday his agency had received some complaints this summer about the river still "running brown" when it rained.

Cook then inspected the road Tuesday. He said problem areas where erosion had occurred had been stabilized with vegetation, as requested by DEP. He did not, he said, inspect all erosion controls.

"We'll obviously be concerned about what they (the ski resort) do in the future," Cook said. "We'll be monitoring development that occurs at Sunday River."

Bonus

the manner in which the company handled it.

'Abysmally communicated'

On this last point, company officials appear to be in complete agreement.

The matter "was abysmally communicated," said ASC spokesman Skip King.

"This situation blew up in our faces because we screwed up on our internal communications -- and, boy, was it ever a lesson learned about the importance of that."

King, ASC chairman Les Otten, and senior vice president for administration Chris Howard all pointed to the rapid growth of ASC and the financial complexities of its corporate structure as contributing to the internal communications problem.

At Sunday River the bonus decision had "traditionally been taken at the end of the fiscal year," Howard said. "The only problem with that is with a large group of companies you don't have consolidated results and you don't have the ability to do that on an integrated basis across the entire network of companies."

"We have instituted a policy -- given this being our first year as a public company," Howard said, "that we're going to wait to make any decisions regarding bonuses until such time as the audited year-end results are in and our 10K has been filed with the SEC. It's only at that point that we're going to take up the issue of bonuses."

But that new policy "wasn't particularly well communicated to staff," Howard said. "Unfortunately, given all the transactions the company has been engaged in I think there's certainly the ability, given the lack of communication, to misinterpret what's gone on."

Decision weeks off
The bonus decision is now expected to come sometime in September, according to Howard.

Otten, Howard and King were all at pains to stress that the decision is in fact still very much up in the air, and when it comes it might not go the way employees would hope.

"The last thing we want to do is disappoint people," King said. "There's just no way to know until the audit is completed whether there will be a bonus."

Otten noted that Sunday River's financial performance for the past season was disappointing, with revenues coming in $1.5 million below target.

The less-than-robust performance was attributed largely to the weather. In a letter to employees, Sunday River president Dan Seme termed the past season "one of the worst winters for the ski industry on record."

The resort is also embarked on a $5-million expansion of its base facilities (that figure does not include the new Jordan Bowl hotel, which is being built by ASC's hotel development subsidiary).

That expansion is placing further demands on the resort's available cash.

Company officials insist, however, that the ASC acquisitions announced last week (Steamboat and Heavenly resorts) do not have any bearing on the bonus decisions at individual ASC resorts, including Sunday River.

A big 'thank you'

Employee bonuses at Sunday River could be sizable, amounting one year to six weeks' pay.

The big-multiple bonuses tended to be in earlier years, when the resort's wage scale was lower.

But even last year, full-time employees received a bonus equal to three weeks pay, and part-timers received a week.

Last year's bonus package cost Sunday River approximately $400,000, Otten said.

Employees have traditionally used the extra money for vacations, new purchases, paying bills, including dental and medical bills, and reinvesting in their families.

And many see the bonus as an emotional as well as financial return on their own substantial investment in the success of Sunday River and ASC.

"It's not the money that's the real issue," one wrote to The Citizen. "The bonus always represented justification for putting in all the time that was asked of us. Many employees work anywhere between 2,500 and 3,000 hours per year, where a 'normal' work year is 2,000 hours. Many employees use the money to do something special for the family and kids, to say 'thank you' for putting up with our winter schedules."

stretching across the continent and a share of the business in each of the major ASC markets. Up until this deal, ASC was concentrated primarily in New England.

Otten has been looking for some Western resorts to complement his dominance in the East, and industry observers said he found them in Steamboat, ranked the No. 6 ski area in the country by Snow Country magazine, and Heavenly, No. 15, which straddles the California-Nevada state line near Reno.

"He's now the guy. There's just no question about it," said Robert Gillen, publisher of the Snow Industry Letter. "He's now got the four major ski states covered: Vermont, Colorado, Utah and California."

Sale of Steamboat and Heavenly had been the subject of intense speculation in the ski industry for a couple of months and picked up even more in recent weeks when several large companies showed interest.

Kimihito Kamori, owner and chairman of Kamori International Corp., said he decided to sell the resorts because of "American Skiing's enthusiasm for the resorts, and American Skiing's capability as an operator and developer of resorts."

Unlike the other Western resort American Skiing bought -- the Canyons in Utah -- neither Steamboat nor Heavenly is expected to require large capital investments. They already are well developed and most seasons attract the most skiers for their markets.

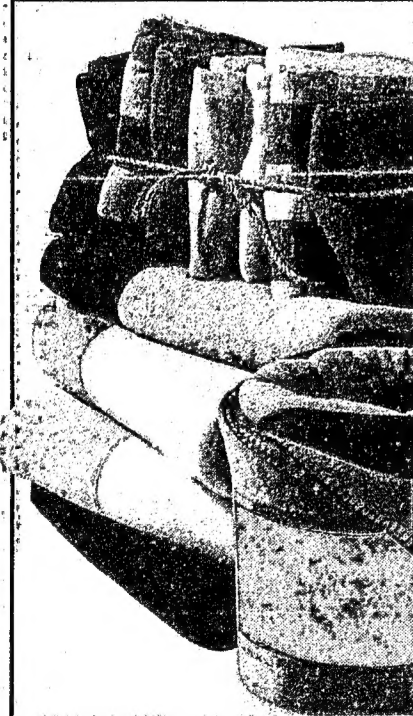

"These are not fixer uppers. These are first-rate, top 10 national ski resorts that do a high volume of business," Gillen said.

Steamboat has roughly 3,000 acres of skiable terrain over 135 trails and a vertical drop of 3,688 feet, according to ASC statistics. It is served by 21 lifts, including a gondola. Heavenly has 4,800 acres, 81 trails and a 3,600-foot vertical drop with 26 lifts, including a tram.

All of that comes at a price and the deal struck Friday surprised some in the industry, though few cared to comment publicly. "Those are two superb properties that do a lot of business," Gillen said. "That is a lot of debt, though. That is a hunk of money."

West Bethel

by Karen Jordan —
When vacation calls and you're gone from home there are many happenings to catch up on.

There have been a number of coyote sightings in the village while I was away. A group of folks at the G & T Country Store spied a coyote while sitting sipping their morning coffee. Arlene Bean's black Persian is missing along with many others in the community. Fran Head, Kathy Faren, the Vautours and Fleets have all lost pets this season.

It doesn't seem possible, but Shane Lovejoy is 22 years old today. I caught Tyrene in the middle of making sandwiches. They were off to Pittsfield, N.H., to visit Tyrene's stepmother, Mary Sweetser. Marlene Gile, Tyrene's sister, is recuperating from surgery. Marlene thought she had bursitis but learned it was a ruptured disc. The disc was removed and titanium was used to repair her neck.

Barker Road sports a new house which seemed to appear quite suddenly. Scott and Lisa Brown with their children, Travis and Tyler, hope to move in sometime this week. Congratulations to the Browns, and may you enjoy many wonderful years in your new home.

Sitting on Pierre's front porch one morning, we were bombarded by hummingbirds doing the dance of survival. A brilliant male dashed by Pierre's nose chasing another, almost spilling Pierre's morning brew. Startled by the close passing of the wee birds, Pierre blurted out a stream of words sending them into flight behind the tiny animals.

My garden appeared very thirsty when I arrived home Saturday afternoon. I found the shasta and gloriosa daisies standing tall among the fiery bee balm. Each month a new color scheme appears popping its head above the lush green blanket of foliage.

Sarah and I just returned from Pilgrim Lodge in West Gardiner and are both reeling from a week of music, late night activities, swimming, sailing, canoeing and lots of good stuff. Sarah gets the opportunity to sing alone and in groups all day and loves camp because there she is known as "the singer." Each young person at camp arrives Sunday morning with fears that they won't fit in or maybe that "church camp" will be boring or stupid. Early in the week friendships begin to form as the kids interact during a "challenge," camp clean-up, island trip or worship service. P.L. offers people of all ages a chance to belong and grow into one family. Sarah and Eva have made hundreds of friends around the state from Greenville to Kittery. We joined 84 senior high kids and a dozen counselors with "Kids in Crisis" as our mission. The theme became more apparent as each day unfolded. Guest speakers, musicians and counselors worked to make our campers aware of others' need and how to find help for them and ourselves.

The Woodstock Historical Society Museum has fine exhibits of Woodstock memorabilia and antiques. It also has a nice research library and a small museum store. Plan to visit some Saturday afternoon. Curator Larry Billings organizes the guides for the summer and catalogues exhibits. He has also recently posted some important notices on the bulletin board. Mary Billings has been working on labels in the museum (much thanks). The society invites you to visit its museum and attend its meetings. Also, the society is always looking for new members. Why not join and make a difference. The curator has organized the museum so it will hopefully serve the society well at the beginning of the new century. Remember -- the museum is open each Saturday from 1 to 4 p.m.

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan
July is about over and the year is half gone plus some.

I walked some at the pond's edge. It was glorious with the water and sky my only company. A brisk breeze sprang up and brought the waves lapping among the grass stalks. The wide, spreading ash edging the water graced the spot and sheltered me from the dazzling sun.

As I looked to the far shore, I thought of the change since early spring. Now the flowers and submerged plants grow intermingled; lily pads cover the surface more and more, thickly carpeting the waters; an enchanting sight when the flowers are spread on a background of dark water. I think of them as floating islands in the shadows of clouds and reflected sky.

So the underwater light gets dimmer. These submerged plants weaken and die and they add their remains to the silt, and that has accumulated. In this airless underwater, decay is slow and the bottom of the pond builds up rapidly with dead vegetation. Here in the shallow water the stout plants get a hold and push their way to the surface. Ours are the pickerel weeds, arrowheads and sweet flag, and cattails near the shore. The latter is a common sight on the swampy landscape. Their seed spikes and tall, narrow leaves stay green through the summer, turning tawny golden in autumn and softening to tan through winter.

The grasses have a slight difference in height and mixed with the other plants make a crazy-quilt pattern, each on its own level among the tussocks and bright colored blue flag and other blossoms.

I thought of the alders so thick in the very spot a year ago and the button bushes still nearby, tolerant of wet feet.

Perched on a bush, above the luminous water, Mr. Redwing inspected my standing with his "conker-ee." He enjoyed the sun beating down on his black and red dress.

Occasionally I paused to rest my eyes on the mountains and think of them as a fascination, a challenge and a solace. Why? That, I cannot answer. I love the grandeur, as they stand like sentinels, scanning the earth and starry sky. They listen to the streams gurgling happily on to the sea. There they stand vast and ageless.

Surveying it all, a large blue heron stood fishing. His reed legs supporting him.

I left with this thought, "He that follows Nature is never out of his way."

Our family had a very upsetting Sunday. Just as Ann and I returned from church, Mary called to tell us that her father and mother were in an automobile accident and at the hospital and wanted Ann to come down. Ann left at once.

Robert and family were to join us for the day. So Fay had prepared a big dinner because we were having a birthday "get-together" for Robert.

Our waiting seemed long. There were just three of us for dinner. Fay was left with food enough for fifteen.

Bradley and Ann were in Moosehead and the vicinity last week.

Haying at the farm is progressing well at this time.

South Woodstock

by Andrea Wing

Much sympathy goes out to the family of Linda-May Cummings. Linda-May was the sister of Chris Miclon who lives in South Woodstock. Ms. Cummings leaves a husband, children, relatives and friends.

Larry Billings, curator at Woodstock Historical Society, reports that Kathleen Bean and Barbara Hathaway watched the museum recently. The society is always grateful when someone donates an artifact to be used as an exhibit.

Congratulations to those celebrating a birthday in August: Travis Cox, Rachel Curtis, Phelps Poland, Laurene Appleby, Pat Lawrence, Claribel Poland, Beverly Stevens, Beverly Dayton, Kay Nickel, Gordon Dillingham, Burnie Rice, and of course President Clinton. Happy birthday to you all.

Happy first wedding anniversary to Kellie and Brad Record, also to Rick and Sally Wing.

I don't have much news this week and would like anyone having any news they would like to have me put in the paper to please give me a call at 674-2102, and I'll be glad to send it in. Thanks.

Rain, rain, come again. This area is getting dangerously dry. Miss Susan Lincoln of Hingham, Mass., with her friend and two little girls spent the past weekend at the Lincoln home here.

Last Saturday, daughter Dottie Adams of Hanover drove me to Unity that I might attend my 70th high school class reunion held at the old Unity High School building and gym. My brother and wife joined us, as it was his 61st reunion. Many faces I had hoped to see were sadly missing. Many younger generations made up the large attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. David Salway spent the day last Sunday with Brandon and Tara Salway in Old Orchard Beach.

What a sad and untimely ending of the life of Bob Elliott.

The Harry Prebles spent this week at their cottage here.

Matthew Eichel has returned to his home in Grapevine, Texas, after 10 days of sailing, swimming, water skiing, and visiting with his grandparents and great-grandmother, "Nana" Wentzell.

Weekend guests at the Wentzell cottage were Debbie Eichel of Paxton, Mo., and Raymond Eichel of Worcester, Mass. On Monday, Mrs. Shirley Keone, with daughters Ashley, Audrey and Haley visited with Millie Wentzell, her grandmother. Erland and Margie Wentzell of Sebago also visited.

We are all happy to welcome back Mrs. Ethel Herr, who is spending a few weeks with her son, Jay, and Hope at the Herr cottage. Mrs. Herr is making her home now in Exeter, N.H.

Bill and Beth Allen are spending a few weeks at the Pauline Allen Collins cottage.

North Newry

by Gil Seeley

On July 10, 11 and 12, Brent Bachelder was back in Bethel, from his home in Providence, R.I., to create a mural on the side of the National Training Laboratory administration building on Broad Street, Bethel. NTL is based in Virginia but was founded 50 years ago in Bethel. Brent's company, Club Neopoli Creations, was hired to design and execute the mural as part of The Great Gathering of All, to celebrate NTL's 50th anniversary. The mural is comprised of scenes of Bethel, NTL's 50th anniversary logo, a world map and a whimsical scene of six characters engrossed in a training group session. Take a ride up and see it. Assisting Brent were Peter Haraty, Allen Campbell and Matthew Covell, all of Providence. Unfortunately, another crew member, Melissa Poyet, was unable to attend the festivities. Don't worry, if you missed them the first time, they will be back over the summer to create six more panels for NTL. Brent is the son of Ras and Karlene Bachelder of North Newry.

A five-generation gathering at the Bachelders' residence Sunday, July 27, brought relatives and friends to an outdoor feast and fun day. First, there was Julia Goodwin from Unity, the oldest; her daughter, Karlene, then Karlene's daughter, Claire Romano of California; then Claire's daughter, Michelle Josephson from Cumberland and her little son, Nikalaus (the five generations). Also attending were Heidi, her husband, Arlan and their children, Julie and Jody Littlefield from Greenbriar, Tenn; Claire's husband George, Tom O'Donnell, Claire's son, and friend Shannon Begin of Portland; Hilma and Wilma, twin sisters of Karlene from Unity; Marcia Mator and Hailey from Wilton; Norma Andrews from Burgaw, N.C.; Ralph and Sherry Caldwell from Stratton; Kevin Slater and Polly Mahoney from North Newry; also Gil Seeley. Ras Bachelder roamed around in his yard vehicle and wanted to give little 14-month-old Nikalaus a ride, but Nik would have none of it as it was too noisy. Of course the family dog, "Muffin," was also there trying to get a bite once in a while from some good-hearted person. It was a great day for everyone. Some went walking, some went motorcycle riding, and some went to the Bear River to wet their feet. But mostly it was talk, talk, talk and laughter and taking snapshots and eating.

Dick and Margaret Hunter of Tafton, Pa., were guests of Sylvia and Bill Wight. They also visited at the nursing home in Rumford. Steve and Marlene, also Melissa Strauss spent part of the week with them. Bill and Sylvia attended the Northeastern Protection Commission in Frederickton, New Brunswick, last week.

Karlene Bachelder, Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Doris Parent, and a guest, Julie Littlefield, were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford one day last week. On the overall scores, Gil was high on the singles and triples. On the first string, Gil beat Betsy by one pin. On the second string, Gil tied with Karlene, and on the third string Betsy beat Doris by one pin. On the triples, Gil beat Betsy by two pins and Karlene and Doris by three pins. Gil had one strike and one spare, Karlene had two spares, Betsy had three spares, Julie and Doris each had one spare.

Monday evening, we attended the supper and Ladies Night at Franklin Grange in Bryant Pond. We had an excellent supper and meeting that followed. The officers were all filled by ladies and they did a good job. Each officer had to get someone else to fill their office and furnish them a gift, plus having an item to help with the program. It worked out fine and we had a good program.

Sunday afternoon, we went to the South Paris Veterans' Home to listen to the Richard Felt Orchestra, but we had to leave about 3 p.m. to go to Waterford Fairgrounds to help take down the West Paris Grange exhibit. West Paris Grange was very fortunate to win first prize on their exhibit, Rumford Grange got second prize and Oxford Grange received third prize. A lot of hard work and planning went into all of the grange exhibits.

There was a Robinson Family get-together at the Lovejoy camp on North Pond Sunday, July 27. Mary Lovejoy had to be there so couldn't help take down the West Paris Grange exhibit but did her part in putting it up.

There will be dances at Locke Mills Town Hall on Aug. 9 and again on Aug. 23. We understand that dances will be held in the old West Sumner Grange Hall starting in September.

Howdy friends. Peggy and I have just returned from our morning walk and now I'll clue you in on our other doings. It is very nice this Tuesday morning, the 29th day of July, and we enjoyed our walk more than when it was humid.

Peggy was at Market Square Nursing Home Monday morning, but I stayed here to work in the gardens.

From the

Bethel Area C. of C.

August is going to be a major "Planning month" for the chamber in addition to serving the visitors that phone us for vacation plans or stop in to our information center. Dozens of people each day find their way to the Bethel Train Station and our visitor center. We are in the process of building a display showcase which will be placed in a prominent location in the new Maine Visitor Center on Route 2. Here we will be showcasing the reasons why visitors should spend some time in this area rather than driving right through the Bethel area. We are also working with the staff there who are quite well versed on the Bethel attractions.

This Friday, Aug. 8, from 4 to 6 p.m., there will be an open house at the Mahoosuc Realty building on Main Street, Bethel. Attorney Mike Steven & Associates, C.P.A.s Jane Gray and Bonita Coffin, and Mahoosuc Realty invite anyone interested to stop in.

The chamber is on the Internet. Our Web address is www.bethelmaine.com. New England Internet Services has over 50 percent of the site on line -- check it out. It is hyperlinked to the Bethel Village site, where the chamber membership list is located.

We are also in the process of updating the chamber brochure. All chamber members in good standing have a free listing in this publication and have the option of purchasing an ad. We will be printing 30,000 copies to distribute during the coming year.

The Marketing Committee is meeting on Tuesday to finalize plans on the fall foliage advertising program. Lodging members are being asked to "package" their rooms with meals and/or attractions such as golfing, mountain biking, canoeing, rock hounding, moose watching, etc. We will be advertising these packages in the Boston Globe travel section and in the Maine Sunday Telegram fall foliage special section.

The Merchants Committee is meeting on Wednesday to set the course for the Bethel pre-holiday promotion, from Thanksgiving weekend to mid-December, including the Country Christmas in Bethel weekend. We hope to inventory any and all events offered by community organizations and churches, as well as develop others to "fill in the gaps."

The Intergenerational Activity Program Committee will meet on Thursday at 7:30 a.m. at the Bethel Alliance Church. We hope to gather more information from committee members that have done focus group interviews with various groups in locations around the SAD44 area. More information on this will be forthcoming in September.

The chamber Board of Directors will meet on Friday at 7:30 a.m. at Cresent Park School for the regular monthly meeting.

COUNTY REPUBLICANS

Steve Wight, chairman of the Maine Land Use Regulation Committee, was the featured speaker at the July meeting of the Oxford County Republican Committee held at Sunday River Inn with approximately 60 present.

Wight described his role as part of the seven-member commission for the past six years, which deals with planning/zoning issues for all the unorganized territories of the state including 300 coastal islands and over 10-million acres, primarily in northern Maine. About 12,000 people live within LURC's jurisdiction.

In addition to the commissioners, a staff of 27 handles the routine functions of the department in Augusta and around the state. One of the most prominent recent issues to be considered by LURC is the proposed high-stakes bingo facility in Albany Township, which, according to Wight, will include a series of public hearings.

During the business portion of the meeting, another joint fundraiser with Androscoggin County was announced for the Wolf Cove Inn in Poland. U.S. Sen. Olympia Snowe is expected to be the featured speaker.

The vacancy caused by the sudden death of Rep. John Baker of Dixfield in District 67 was discussed. There will be a special election in November to fill the seat and possible Republican candidates were being considered. Only towns in that district which caucused are eligible to choose the candidate to run in November, once more underlining the importance of each town holding a caucus every two years.

Dan Demeritt of Sen. Susan Collins' Lewiston office outlined some of the senator's latest activities, including her role on the Governmental Affairs hearings and her work in support of higher educational funding efforts. Demeritt introduced Kristen Cameron, who is a summer intern for the senator.

County chair Jolene Lovejoy called on state Sen. Norman K. Ferguson (R-Hanover), who spoke in favor of the proposed gas pipeline and also commented on the importance of the upcoming election in November. Rep. Tom Winsor (R-Norway), Rep. Rob Cameron (R-Rumford), and Sheriff "Skip" Herrick all made brief remarks.

The next meeting was scheduled for Fryeburg at the Agricultural Hall on the fairgrounds on Aug. 12, beginning at 5:30 p.m.

SUDBURY CANADA LECTURE

Dr. James S. Leamon, professor of history at Bates College, will deliver the sixth annual Hall Memorial Lecture Friday, Aug. 8, during Sudbury Canada Days, the Bethel Historical Society's heritage festival.

Professor Leamon, a specialist in Maine's colonial past and the author of a leading book on Maine during the American Revolution, will lecture on the topic, "A Revolutionary Dialogue: Rev. Jacob Bailey and Samuel Thompson." The presentation will compare and contrast the worlds of two of Maine's 18th century citizens, Rev. Bailey, a loyalist, and radical Whig, Samuel Thompson.

Leamon, a native of Melrose, Mass., has been teaching colonial and early national period American history at Bates College since 1964. He is also a registered historical archaeologist and has led or participated in numerous digs along the Kennebec and Penobscot rivers.

The Hall lectureship was established by trustees of the Bethel Historical Society in 1992, following a bequest from the estate of Ralph and Marion Hall. It annually provides financial support to bring a major scholar of the Northern New England past to Bethel to speak as part of the society's summer heritage festival, Sudbury Canada Days.

The lecture will be delivered in the meeting room of the Moses Mason House. For more information call the society at 824-2908.

Sudbury Canada Days events

Sudbury Canada was Bethel's name prior to the town's incorporation in 1796. It was so designated since the original grantees from Sudbury, Mass., had fought unsuccessfully to conquer Canada in 1690. The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, which owned Maine until 1820, rewarded these men with land in the "District of Maine," naming it in honor of their Massachusetts town and the campaign in which they had served. This area was never part of Canada. Sudbury Canada Days honors the town's rich heritage dating from the 18th century.

HOME INSPECTION SERVICE—Scott Gould of Hanover recently expanded his remodeling contracting services by establishing Androscoggin Home Inspections, a service he offers to home buyers and sellers. Gould, who has 25 years of experience in the construction industry, is certified by the Home Inspection Institute of Cincinnati, Ohio. "Recommending home inspections is becoming an accepted practice in the banking and real estate markets. Inspections performed for the buyer allow them to know the apparent condition of the property that they are about to make a major investment in," said Gould. "Home inspections can also be advantageous for the party selling the home. Having an inspection done at the time of a listing can let the owner know beforehand what problems a home has that could delay or destroy a pending sale." Inspections involve a basic evaluation of areas such as structure, foundation, electrical system, plumbing, roofing, chimneys and heating system. He also offers radon air and water testing and water quality analysis. Gould may be reached at 207-364-8972.

Anthropologist Ben Werner

Summer school: anthropologist discusses masks as forms of communication

Ben Werner of Shelburne, N.H., spoke to members of the Young Scholars and High School programs at Gould Academy Summer School last week. A field anthropologist for 35 years and former college professor, Werner spoke about the use of masks as communication tools in various cultures. The students had created their own "life masks" in conjunction with a written personal reflection project in an integrated arts curriculum at the academy prior to Mr. Werner's visit.

Gould Academy Summer School is in its 17th session with an enrollment of 64 students from around the world. The accelerated enrichment pace of both the six-week High School Program and the four-week Young Scholars Program allows students to cover a year's worth of academic material from one subject during the session.

According to director Buz Morison, interdisciplinary projects are an academic focal point of the summer. "In addition to the life masks project, students have created an on-line Literary and Arts Magazine which includes drawings, photos, poems, and essays, as well as stories from this summer's adventures," he said. "The site is being developed by the Writing and Arts classes, in collaboration with the Internet Publishing class. Even the Latin, Math, and English as a Second Language classes are using art and computer projects to enhance their creativity."

RICHARD E. THOMPSON

Richard E. Thompson, 67, of Port Richey, Fla., formerly of Bethel, died Friday, Aug. 1, 1997, in Akron, Ohio, where he was vacationing.

He was born at Grant Hospital in Columbus, Ohio, on June 25, 1930, the son of Solomon and Clara Thompson. He attended Athens High School where he was an all-star football player. He graduated from high school in 1949 and joined the U.S. Air Force immediately. He was a technical sergeant in communications. He was stationed in Maine and then transferred to Alaska where he was stricken with polio in 1956. He retired from the service in 1957 with a disability.

After his retirement from the service, he sold insurance in the Lewiston-Auburn area for A.Q. Miller until the opening of his own insurance agency, Thompson Associates, in Gray. TIMING IS EVERYTHING

At Mountain Health Services,
we make time for you
Let's face it - it's never convenient to visit the doctor.

When you need routine medical attention late in the afternoon, Mountain Health Services is ready to provide the care you need, when you need it, including same-day appointments.

Adults who work weekdays and youngsters in school with athletic commitments can't easily schedule routine appointments. All of our healthcare providers select certain days each month to be available for late afternoon appointments. This ensures your appointment with your primary care provider. For emergencies or same-day appointments we arrange for you to see the first available provider if your primary care provider is not available.

Please, call ahead for:

- Routine adult physicals
- School, camp, or work physicals
- Urgent or routine care for minor illness or injury
- Preventive immunizations
- Gynecology and family planning
